Water Suit Is Postponed; May Fade

Pasadena Joins Agreement That Might Afford Settlement Or Dropping City

Trial of Pasadena's suit to restrict the use of water in this and surrounding cities of the San Gabriel Valley was indefinitely postponed when the case was reached on the trial list in the Superior court Wednesday. By agreement between attorneys for Pasadena and counsel for the various cities named as defendants the case was taken off the calendar.

Attorneys for Sierra Madre and other cities had arranged to ask for a postponement of trial until May 1, or at least until tests now being conducted to determine whether Sierra Madre is in an underground separate and apart from the Raymond basin from which Pasadena takes its water, are completed. Information to be thus gained is held to be vital to the suit.

Also it was to be contended that affected cities should have more time in which to combat a suit that Pasadena has spent five years and a huge amount of money in engineering, legal and other technical lines to prepare for.

Pasadena's attorneys agreed to more than a mere postponement. So the case was taken off calendar. There is just the possibility, some of the attorneys said, an agreement may be reached following completion of tests in progress, that will eliminate Sierra Madre and some other cities from the litigation.

Problems Of Students Explained

Wilson High Head Tells Kiwanians Reasons For School Grading

Arthur M. Brown, a former teacher in the Sierra Madre grammar school, now principal of Woodrow Wilson Junior high school, where many children of his former pupils have been under his supervision, was principal speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Tuesday afternoon. He smiled broadly when introduced by Rudolph R. Hartman, president of the Sierra Madre school board, who prefaced the introduction with extracts read from school records at the time Mr. Brown was teaching at the old Sierra Madre School.

"Yes, said Mr. Brown, 'I started my teaching career here in the little three-room school house at Baldwin and Central. How many years ago I would hate to say.'

Mr. Brown told of the present set-up of the Pasadena school system with an explanation of the functions of the elementary and junior high schools. There are three definite aims in the elementary field, he said. First, to teach children to live together democratically; second, to form good habits of honesty, loyalty, cleanliness, and truthfulness; and third, to develop certain basic skills such as reading, writing and arithmetic.

He told how the Pasadena school system is on a 6-4-4 basis, calling for six years in elementary school, four years in junior high school, and four years in high school. As the kindergarten bridges the gap between the school and the home, so the junior high school bridges the gap between the elementary grades and the high school years, he said.

The main function of the junior high school is to provide an "exploratory field" where the adolescent child may have access to valuable experiences in music, art, printing, woodworking, clothing, skills, artcraft work, and art courses, said Mr. Brown.

"We place the child where he may have access to valuable experiences and we hope that they will interest him," said the principal.

"If they miss these experiences in junior college, then they very often miss them altogether, for later the paths of the students divide. Those who intend to enter college must follow a rigid preparatory course, and do not have the time for the courses that will prove most valuable to them in later life," he pointed out.

In Mr. Brown's opinion the greatest personal development can be made by children placed in the "exploratory field," where they are very often inspired to leadership themselves by the examples offered them by older children.

Naturally there are adjustments the child must make, Mr. Brown clearly showed, but they must come sooner or later, anyhow, and it is better for the child to obtain these adjustments in the early adolescent age. There is only a very small percentage who cannot easily make this transition period.

New Schedule For Outgoing Mail Effective Monday

Due to changes in the Santa Fe time table, closing time for mails at the local post office will be changed somewhat, commencing next Monday. Mail for San Bernardino and points east will be closed at 11:15 a.m., instead of 9:30 and 11:00. Mail for Pacific Coast points, through Los Angeles, will close at 11:15 instead of 11:00.

Mail for points between here and San Bernardino will close at 9:30 a.m., as at present, and the afternoon dispatch, for all points, will not be changed, closing at 5.

Air mail for the afternoon planes will be dispatched at 9:30 instead of 11, but the change reduces the chance of missing the afternoon plane because of the Santa Fe Chief's occasional lateness.

The revised schedule will improve the receipt of air mail, in that certain mail received at Los Angeles will be delivered to patrons of this office in the afternoon instead of the following morning.

Opening Set For City's New Stores

Doors Of Two Smart Shops Will Swing Out Today And Tomorrow

When midday trips down today and tomorrow she will find two spic and span new stores stocked with the newest and smartest merchandises the market affords catering to her fancy.

Today is the opening day of the Fowler Dress Shop, in Kersting Court, in quarters formerly occupied by Roberta's Shop, and tomorrow will see the opening of Garland's Dry Goods Store, also in Kersting Court, in the building long tenanted by J. F. Sadler.

Each store will open with entirely new stock, not so much as a pin remaining from the older stores. The Fowler Dress Shop will offer the latest in spring styles in dresses and women's accessories. The shop has been completely remodeled, with black and silver decorations and is under the personal supervision of Mrs. H. F. Fowler, wife of the owner.

Tomorrow will see the opening of Garland's Dry Goods Store. This store, too, will have the finest and most up-to-date lines of general merchandise that Los Angeles, San Francisco and Eastern markets offer. Mr. Garland announces he will carry ladies' and children's ready to wear, dress goods, patterns, and a complete line of dry goods. In short, a complete department store in miniature will be maintained.

Mr. Garland will manage this store with the assistance of Mrs. Garland. They are both experienced in operating stores of this nature, having been in the business for many years.

Nipponese Dancer Charms Women At Recital

Clad in a silken kimono with her heavy black hair coiled at the nape of her neck, Miss Mitsumi Bando, Japanese classical dancer, moving through the measured paces of the dance, looked like a legendary princess from an old print.

At an impromptu dance recital at the home of Yonezo Okamoto, Sunday afternoon, Miss Bando, who is enroute from New York where she represented Japan at a World's Congress of Dancers held in Radio City, to her home in Tokyo, demonstrated her art.

A dainty, fluttering Japanese fan in the ivory hands of Miss Bando, became successively, falling show, a love-letter, a sword, an umbrella, and cup of sake. Her body half-twisted and she became an old, old lady. Her hands floated in the air and were transformed to falling snowflakes.

Tiny, attractive Miss Bando, explained through her interpreter that her art was called "mai" and "Shosa" in Japan, or the art of pantomime and dancing. She likes American movies, ice cream and motor cars, and she thinks American girls are wonderful.

She has appeared in recital at Claremont College while visiting California, and has promised to dance the beautiful fragile Wistaria dance, at the Wistaria Vine Gardens during the Fete.

First Church Dance Here Tonight

A dance to be held in the recreational hall of the Congregational Church by the Young People's Society tonight will be the first ever held there, the young people choosing now to exercise the prerogative granted them by a vote of the church membership some months ago.

Dinner will be served earlier in the evening, and it is expected to be an annual event.

Bode Found No War Talk Abroad

Forum Told Europeans Not Discussing World Crisis As Americans Do

It may be that through rigid censorship, the dictators of Italy and Germany are keeping the people of those countries in ignorance of the acute situation that may precipitate a war that will engulf all of Europe, but no matter what the cause, even in England and France there is little or no talk of war, Dean Arnold Bode told a Forum audience that taxed the capacity of the auditorium of the city hall Tuesday evening.

Billed to tell of his eight-months trip abroad that took him and his family into England, France, Switzerland and Italy, the Forum session proved to be much in the nature of a homecoming reception to the venerable and much loved cleric. And he talked most interestingly of what he had seen. It was evident he had preferred to see the best of what each country had to offer and found much to admire even in Italy. So he spoke along these lines.

"I can tell you only a simple traveler's tale, and some of the good things I found on my journey through Europe," said Dean Bode, as a prelude to his impressions of the countries he visited.

Strangely enough, he said, there is no war talk in Europe, and for all the six months he was away the only war-talk he heard was in letters from home. The average man in Europe, said Dean Bode, is not inclined to go to war and let someone kill him off. He has seen the silliness and futility of such conduct and wants none of it for himself.

According to Dean Bode, Fascist Italy is not altogether as black as it is painted and the country seems reasonably happy and prosperous under the present regime. She is encouraging tourists, and one may travel the length and breadth of Italy for about $12 per person. Hotel rates are reasonable and it is possible to obtain a room in a comfortable pension for $1.25 a day.

He brought out that Italy was a nation and not a cartoon of a dictator as is so often thought in America. And that the Italian people seem to be happy and contented under their present government.

Since 1925 a system of collective contracts has prevailed between labor and employers, and the workers elect one representative, and the owners another one to represent them in a legislative body. For instance, shoemakers elect one of their own to represent them, and said Dean Bode, there have been no labor disputes or strikes since this system was inaugurated.

In Dean Bode's opinion conditions in the country are not fully explained here. Most magazines and books take a flip attitude, as if they knew everything there was to know about the situation and dwell mostly upon the least desirable features of the government and living conditions. Christian charity, he said, would seem to be that one should note the best in a system, and not harp continually on the worst features, overlooking the good entirely.

He told of the after-work leisure time organizations and how an Italian workman might obtain instruction in choral singing, art, architecture, etc., by paying 10 cents a month.

Many of the institutions of a corporate state might be profitably carried over into a democratic form of government, the Dean believes, especially the cheap travel concessions, and the care provided for mothers and children.

Following Dean Bode's speech, Mrs. Robert de Wright described a village for workers she had visited during her Italian tour last summer, and bore out many of the Dean's contentions that some good customs exist in the Fascist state in addition to the bad.

When asked from the floor regarding the "slaughter of Italian youth in the Ethiopian war," Dean Bode replied simply "I don't know about that—I wasn't there. I can only tell you about what I saw."

Colonel H. B. Hersey, speaking from the floor, told of his admiration of Mussolini's strength and courage in undertaking the creation of a state out of the anarchy and the chaos that existed in Italy following the war.

Dean Bode prefaced his description of Italy by recounting some of the pleasures he enjoyed in England when revisiting the scene of his young manhood.

The English still retain many features of the old days, he said, and old family retainers become an institution and are cared for to the end of their days by their employers, as a matter of course.

Panhandler Picks Wrong Man Out Of Thousands

With nearly 5,000 people to pick on in Sierra Madre, George Kangas of Glendale, certainly chose the wrong one when he approached Chief of Police Gordon G. McMillan Thursday afternoon as he walked along Kersting Court and panhandled him for a dime.

When McMillan, who was in civilian dress, attempted to arrest Kangas, he resisted and ran across the street to the P.E. station where Chief McMillan finally subdued him, and took him to the police station where he was booked on a vagrancy charge and held for instigation.

"It was just my luck," said Kangas.

Noted Music Groups Coming Here

Pasadena Civic Chorus And Chapel Singers Will Give Performance Feb. 28

The first appearance in Sierra Madre or any other small city of the distinguished Pasadena Civic Chorus and Chapel Singers, under the direction of Robert Farley, is scheduled for Monday night, February 28, at the Congregational Church. The event is exciting much interest throughout the city.

Fifty men and women comprise the chorus and there are forty women among the members. May Moyer Barlow, former Sierra Madrean, will sing as a request, "The Serenade" which won her great acclaim at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium concert in November. The "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah will be given together with many beautiful Eastern numbers.

The concert will be presented through the courtesy of the Pasadena Board of Directors, according to Mrs. Margaret Domschke, who is responsible for bringing the Chorus and Chapel Singers to Sierra Madre.

These two organizations have won themselves a particularly fine reputation for musical excellence. They have appearances for concerts at the Huntington Hotel, the Elks Club in Los Angeles, and the Easter Sunrise Services in Altadena.

Movie Stars Coming Out March 19

"And shure we'll be there with a flash of green and our shillalies, begorra."

So said a long list of Irish moving picture stars when Pat West invited them to a St. Patrick's Day benefit show for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 3208, to be held Saturday night, March 19, in the school auditorium.

That they will be here can be counted on most emphatically said Pat West, "for whoever heard of an Irishman missing a St. Patrick's celebration?" he asked.

Pat O'Brien, Allen Jenkins, Dick Foran, Frank McHugh and Phil Regan, "the singing cop," have all promised Pat to come and "kick up their heels" or do "a bit o' singin'."

"I'm sure right now that at least six of the brightest stars in Hollywood will be with us," said West on his return from a trip around the studios last night, "and I am confident that we will have that many more, in addition to some dance acts that have made outstanding hits in the latest revue pictures. It will be a corking good show, everyone can be sure of that."

Pritchard New Head Of Theological Seminary Alumni

Fifteen alumni of the Union Theological Seminary of New York and their wives were present at a luncheon Monday afternoon at the Wistaria Vine Gardens, when Rev. A. O. Pritchard, pastor of the Congregational Church, was elected president of the Southern California Alumni Association. Dr. Cass A. Reed, of Pomona, was appointed secretary to serve with Mr. Pritchard.

Union Seminary matters occupied part of the conversation, but world affairs and social trends were chief topics under discussion, in which Mrs. W. J. Lawless, and Dean Bode, guests of honor, took an active part.

Other guests included Dr. and Mrs. Doremus Scudder, of Claremont; Dr. and Mrs. Graham Hunter, of Fullerton; Rev. and Mrs. John C. Worley of Pasadena; Rev. and Mrs. Harold Eymann of Satcoy; Rev. Bertram Warren of Pomona; and Rev. Benjamin Swift of Claremont.

Half Of The Citizens Can't Vote

Importance Of New Registrations Seen With Approach Of City Election

Registration of voters at this time takes on added importance in view of the fact that with five candidates already in the field, there is certain to be a contest over the four places to be filled on the city council at the April 12 city election.

It seems not to be generally understood that under late amendments to the registration law, persons who failed to vote at the last election are not eligible to vote again until they have renewed their registrations. It follows, therefore, that unless they get under the wire before the curtain falls on March 4, about half the men and women of Sierra Madre who would ordinarily be entitled to vote, will be unable to do so.

Not only must non-voters at the last election register now in order to have a vote in April, but any others who have so much as moved next door or across the street since their last registration and, of course, newcomers to the city whose names have never appeared on the city's registration lists.

Young men and women who have become of voting age or who have never registered or voted before must also register now if they expect to vote for their favorites for membership in the council.

Cautious citizens who fear they might be overlooked by district registrars will appear at the city hall where their names may be added to the voting lists between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. excepting Saturdays when the hours are from 9 until 12.

Meanwhile three registrars have been named by the county registrar of voters to go about taking registrations. They are Mrs. Russell Lovejoy, Mrs. Tillie Stimpfling and Charles L. Fisher.

Perry's Mart Is Sold To East Pasadena Business Man

Another change in the business set-up of Sierra Madre occurred Monday when Perry Krushen announced the sale of his market, "Perry's Food Mart" to P. D. Brock of East Pasadena.

Mr. Brock, who has many years of business experience in quality markets back of him, will operate the market under the name of Brock's Market. He recently disposed of his interest in a market in East Pasadena and spent some time studying the business fields of several communities before finally deciding upon Sierra Madre, he said.

"We will continue the same policy as prevailed before and will sell only the finest quality meats, groceries, and garden fresh vegetables," Mr. Brock said.

According to Mr. Brock, who will be assisted in the grocery and vegetable departments by Mrs. Brock, the meat department will continue under its present management with the finest steer and baby beef the market affords offered for sale. Free delivery service will be maintained as heretofore, he said.

Mr. Krushen will go back into the drug business.

Mr. and Mrs. Brock and two children will make their home in Sierra Madre.

Asks For Wholesale Replacement Of Water Meters

Replacement of 380 Sierra Madre water meters, all in use for more than eleven years and some for as many as 30 years, has been recommended to the city council by Joe Swanson, meter reader of the water department. It will cost $2,831 or $7.45 each to repair the ancient, inefficient meters, reported Swanson, and $4,689 or $10.00 each to replace them. In addition the city will receive a rebate of $1.50 for each old meter. Swanson proposed that there shall be a certain number and expressed confidence in increased efficiency in water recordings will soon pay for the new equipment. Council took the matter under advisement.

Shippey's New Book Slips Into The Second Edition

Lee Shippey's mouth skidded into a smile that extended from ear to ear and his eyes shone like klieg lights Tuesday morning on receipt of a telegram from Houghton & Mifflin, publishers of his latest novel, "The Great American Family," announcing that the presses had started to grind out the second edition of that work. The first edition was released only on January 17. It is something of a record to make a second edition in less than a month. Publishers confided to the Sierra Madre author that while there is a tremendous demand for the book throughout the east, it has met with universal approval.

Local Debaters Rate High In Coast Competition

Two Sierra Madre boys participated in the Pacific Coast Forensic Tourney, held at the College of the Pacific, Stockton, February 10, 11 and 12.

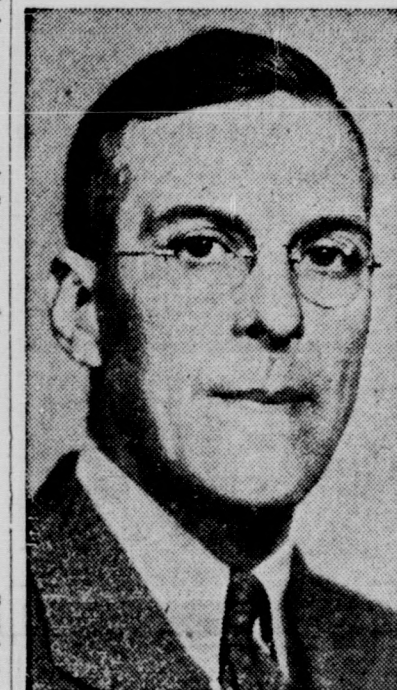

Ray Simpson, son of Dr. R. C. Simpson, and Jean Valentine as a debate team placed second in the contest using the Phi Delta Kappa National debate topic, "Resolved: that the National Labor Relations Board shall be empowered to enforce arbitration in all industrial disputes."

John Colbert with Bancroft Nelson made up another debate team representing PJC and were especially complimented for their work.

board of supervisors and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, will be guest of honor and principal speaker, at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Peterson. Other speakers will include W. R. Michelen of Los Angeles County Labor Coordinating Bureau, and Wallace Braden, representative of the county welfare department.

May Complete Local Drive For Seminary This Week

At a breakfast given by the Holy Name Society on Sunday morning, in St. Rita's Auditorium to mark the inauguration of the local drive for funds to aid in the erection of St. John's Seminary, Rev. Hyacinth Clarey, announced that two Sierra Madreans had donated $500 each to the building fund.

The captains and lieutenants who will be rivals during the drive were present, as were 10 Boy Scouts who were honor guests. Preceding breakfast more than 75 members attended mass and partook of Holy Communion. The captains and lieutenants hope to have a canvass of the city completed by the end of this week.

Women Will Sponsor Party For Fine Arts Guild

A benefit dessert-bridge for the Junior Fine Arts will be held at the Woman's Club, February 19, at 7:30 p.m. with a program of entertainment staged by the young guild members.

According to Mrs. R. W. Solomon, who heads the committee, provision will be made for those who wish to play other card games, and there will also be checkers, 500, or pinocle. The captains and lieutenants will act as master of ceremonies. Little George Tyree will give a monologue. There will also be a skit, "A Pair of Lunatics" with Sunny Larson and Eddie Ranahan as a pair of nit-wits. Carla Thayer will sing two numbers, accompanied by Berta Uriarte at the piano.

On the committee for the affair are Mrs. R. W. Solomon, Mrs. Elizabeth Turner, Mrs. May Mason, Mrs. Freda Clatworthy, Mrs. E. K. Bretherton and Eddie Ranahan.

Five Already Seek Seats In Council

City Sure To Have Contests Over Four Places To Be Filled At April Election

Sierra Madre is assured of a contest for the four seats in its city council to be filled at the April 12 municipal election. Five candidates have already taken out nominating petitions and three weeks remain before the expiration of the period in which filings may be made by contestants.

Councilman Thomas Miller seemed to remove any doubt as to whether or not he would seek another term when he took out a petition yesterday. He was appointed to fill an unexpired term and will go before the voters for the first time.

Shortly before the Miller papers were issued by City Clerk Waverly E. Pratt, A. F. Hannaford, of 749 Brookside Lane, Canyon Park, took out his papers and announced he will be in the fray.

Wednesday John P. Scheaffer of 31 East Alegria avenue, took out a set of nominating petitions, but announced they were not in interest of his own candidacy. He refused to say or whom they would be circulated.

Earlier in the week petitions were issued to Paul N. Carter of No 1 Carter avenue and Thomas Schwartz.

Miller is the only incumbent councilman to definitely indicate his intentions. The terms of mayor H. C. Reavis, Lester K. Layton and Warren O. Preston also expire this year. Preston, like Miller, was appointed to fill a vacancy. He, however, was once elected by the people for a full term.

The names of at least a dozen other probable, at least possible, candidates are being mentioned in the gossip sure to crop up before an election. Among these are Marcus A. Woodward, attorney, or 99 Suffolk avenue, and Foster C. Burpus of 121 South Lima street, both of whom say they have given the matter no serious consideration; and E. W. Anderson of 702 Manzanita avenue. Despite the fact that his son Thomas is apparently going to be a candidate, there is still much talk of former Councilman Preston M. Schwartz throwing his hat back into the ring, although he is known to have told persons urging him to become a candidate that he had no intention of doing so.

The one woman most persistently named as a likely contender in what gives promise of being a free for all is Mrs. Hazel James Ferguson of North Baldwin avenue. Mrs. Ferguson is absent from the city just now but friends who have been urging her to announce herself say she will return early next week when they hope to persuade her to take out a petition.

The last day for the filing of nominating petitions by candidates is March 12, 30 days before the city election.

Shifting Of Townships Protested

Opposition developed here this week to transfer of Sierra Madre from Pasadena into Monrovia township judicial jurisdiction and protest to the county supervisors were being prepared setting forth that it is proposed to drop the city from the A to B class townships, where the courts are unable to accept or pass upon cases involving more than $300. It was declared this would require litigants and their witnesses and testimony to go to the Municipal courts of Los Angeles, adding considerably in time and expense.

Meanwhile Arcadia's city council Monday night adopted a resolution identical the same as that passed here, proposing transfer from one township to the other. And there was no dissent.

It appears Monrovia township is in fact in the "B" class under the 1930 census, even though Azusa township was consolidated with it four years ago. The population of the combined townships by the census is somewhat over 26,000. Class "A" townships must have over 30,000. If Sierra Madre and Arcadia are transferred to Monrovia township it will have a population of over 32,000 as shown by the 1930 census, or about 40,000 according to the population recently indicated by a survey of the U. S. postal service.

If it is thus elevated from the "B" to the "A" class it will have the same jurisdiction as the Pasadena justice courts.

For some reason known only to the supervisors, resolutions of the Sierra Madre and Arcadia councils were referred to the county budget department at a supervisors meeting Wednesday.

PTA TO HAVE SERIES OF DISCUSSIONS

A series of panel discussions is announced by the P.T.A. Council of Pasadena open to interested P.T.A. members. There will be one each Friday morning in the lecture room of the Pasadena Public Library on Walnut street, from 10 to 11:30, beginning February 11 and for the ensuing six weeks. The general subject under discussion will be "What the Special Services in the School Offers for Growth Needs."

Poets To Tell Wonders Of The Vine

Prize Contest To End With Big Convention Of Bards At Wistaria Fete

Sierra Madre will be the literary Mecca of an even wider area than the Southland. Eyes and ears and footsteps of the literati will turn to Wistaria Vine Gardens. Already to Dreamers' House and Ralph Cheyney as the poetry chairman of the Wistaria Vine Association are pouring poems celebrating the world-famous wistaria vine. For the Wistaria poetry contest that was so successful last year is being repeated. Moreover, on the annual Poets' Day at the Wistaria Fete the Foothill Poets' branch of the Western Poetry League is convoking the third annual western poets' congress. A poets' banquet poetry tournament and other festivities and interesting activities are being planned by a large committee of arrangements chair-manned by Lucia Trent.

Three distinguished judges have consented to select the winning poems: Charles H. Prisk, editor of the Pasadena "Star-News" and "Post;" Dr. Edward W. Hauck, of the University of Southern California and formerly president of the Los Angeles Board of Education, and the celebrated poet,

RETIRED RAILROAD MAN TO WINTER HERE

Among interesting recent arrivals in town are Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Osborne, of West Des Moines, Ia., the latter a sister of Dr. C. L. T. Herbert of 223 North Mt. Trail avenue. They arrived the first week of the year, but have been staying in Pasadena until last week. Mr. Osborne is a retired Rock Island railroad man and intends to take life easy from now on. This is the second time they have been to Sierra Madre. Their hosts took them down to the mission at San Juan Capistrano on Sunday, driving through the beautiful coast towns along El Camino Real. Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will visit Forest Home, for a glimpse of the pine-studded snow country. The Doctor is getting out maps galore with which to point the way to many other glorious spots.

Stanton A. Coblenz, editor of "Wings."

Five cash prizes are offered for the best poems featuring the wistaria vine: one of 20 dollars, one of five dollars and five one-dollar prizes. Anyone may compete and may submit any number of entries. The poems may be in any form—but no poem longer than 30 lines. Each should be submitted anonymously with the name and address of its author attached to it in a sealed envelope. The closing date is noon, March fifth, by which time all should be in the hands of Ralph Cheyney.

March tenth has been selected for Poets' Day. One of the highlights of the occasion will be a panel discussion in which Lee Shippey and Harold D. Carew have both consented to be among the participants.

OBITUARY

REBEKAH C. GARDEN

Funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Rebekah C. Garden, aged 50, of Wooster, Mass., who was spending the winter in Sierra Madre, at Reynolds & Eberle Chapel in Pasadena Wednesday morning, with Ernest Roberts, Christian Science Reader, officiating. Cremation followed.

Mrs. Garden was found dead on the bathroom floor at her home, 282 Santa Anita Court, early Monday morning by Mrs. Clifford Husted with whom she resided. Apparently she suffered a heart attack.

Mrs. Garden was a native of Grand Island, Neb. There are no surviving relatives.

Sierra Madrean Is President Of 10-2's At Wilson High

"I plan to do everything in my power to make your last semester at Wilson a happy, agreeable, and helpful one," said Arthur M. Brown, principal of the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School, at the first 10-2 class meeting of the year in the Willard Auditorium.

Balloting for class officers resulted as follows: president, Loren Pratt; vice-president, Jerry Perl; secretary, Stanton Irvine; treasurer, Margaret Nelson.

'PRIDE AND PREJUDICE' AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Sino-Japanese headlines, daily skull and bones traffic totals and the general epidemic of nervous indigestion will be given a welcome shove to the background as the Pasadena Community Playhouse recreates the daguerrotype charm and effective sentimentality of "Pride and Prejudice," Helen Jerome's comedy from the Jane Austen novel. The play will run until February 26.

ANNOUNCE AUDITIONS TO FIND MUSICAL TALENT

Mrs. A. D. Cain, piano instructor of East Alegria avenue, announced this week she will offer a free scholarship to the student showing the greatest talent, and that auditions may be arranged for the purpose of determining what local young folks really have talent.

LETTERS from Readers

CHANGE PROTESTED

To the Editor of the Sierra Madre News:

The proposed change of Sierra Madre from Pasadena to Monrovia Township would be detrimental to this city in general and to the individual residents and people for reasons too innumerable to mention, most of them so obvious that there is no room for argument. For example, all suits in the Justices court of Pasadena township can be brought on all claims up to $1000 and will soon be $2000, thereby making it unnecessary for our people to go into Los Angeles to Municipal Court for any suit not involving over those amounts.

The bringing of witnesses and evidence to Los Angeles instead of only to Pasadena will be a large additional expense in both time lost and money expended, both in witness costs and attorney fees.

The Monrovia Justice court, I believe, has only the power to try cases up to $300 and if we were in Monrovia township all the cases involving over that amount would have to be, by law, brought in Municipal Court of Los Angeles. Most cases originating here involve over $300 and under $1000.

Why needlessly double our expenses by a needless and useless change of townships?

PASSING OF MCINTIRE SAD NEWS FOR WEST

Pat West, of the movies, was particularly saddened by the news of the death this week of O. O. McIntire, famous New York columnist, because for many, many years they were pals on Broadway.

Pat has many of the red-ink cards made famous by McIntire who always used red ink when writing his intimate friends, and among the prize possessions of the West household is an amber-head cane, that Mr. McIntire brought Pat from Paris several years ago.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS TO BE STARTED HERE

C. H. Buck, of the Sierra Madre Recreation Department, will conduct free classes in photography for beginners every Wednesday at the Park House from 3 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Mr. Buck has had 30 years experience in commercial and portrait photography.

These classes are open to children and adults. Any one interested can either contact Mr. Buck at the Park House or leave his name and address with Mr. Lewis at the city hall.

The man who is always waiting for something to turn up, might start on his own sleeves.

RAIN did not dampen the spirits of the eighty brave ones who attended the smartly-appointed Newcomers' party given by the Sierra Madre Woman's Club on Friday evening, Mrs. Al Myers, president of the club, and Mrs. J. H. Robertson, chairman in charge, have nothing but words of commendation for all those who gave so unstintingly of their time to make this affair the splendid success it proved to be. The Juniors worked like trojans to produce that much-talked-of effect of the big umbrella in the ceiling from which red hearts dangled so profusely and temptingly. The active Juniors were Mrs. Mary Schwartz, Miss Mary Francis Brain, Miss Angie Per Lee, Mrs. Marian Thayer, and Mrs. Myrna Cant.

Jack Buchanan, always popular and pleasing with his vocal renditions, was in unusually good form and sang as he had never sung before, with Mrs. A. D. Cain accompanying him beautifully. Mrs. J. S. Billheimer delighted with her inimitable readings. Mrs. Al Miller and Mrs. E. E. Bacon worked wonders in the setting of tables. Mrs. LeRoy Anderson sold candy. Instead of the many small tables usually used, a large center table was becomingly set with red candles and red ranunculus, and silver. Sixteen guests at a time would cease their games and sit around the convivial board, thus insuring good-fellowship. Half a dozen door prizes were won.

Much interest has been awakened by the unique method proposed for next week's meeting of the Woman's Club, which will be a book review symposium conducted by Mrs. May S. Mason, Wednesday, February 23, after the usual 10 o'clock board meeting and musical program. The reviews are to be given by 12 members, who are not to consume more than five minutes each. Everyone has a favorite book and everyone enjoys nothing so much as to dilate upon it, therefore there should be much provocative discussion. A group of solos will be given by Miss Olive Sedgman. A cafeteria luncheon followed by a topic, whose title is not now available, will follow. The French Section, under the chairmanship of Mme. Mariane de Beaulieu, meets today at 1:30 p.m.

Need Cooperation
To Hold Tourist
Trade Level

To maintain its $216,000,000 tourist business at the present level, Southern California must "be sold" during 1938 to at least a million Americans who as yet never have seen the Southland, directors of the All-Year Club.

James R. Page, the area's official non-profit tourist organization, were told this week.

Members re-elected James R. Page to the club presidency, naming with him Don Thomas as secretary and managing director. A recognized national expert on travel and travelers' habits, Thomas has headed the working staff for nine years. Fifty-seven directors, all leading Southern Californians, were re-elected to their positions and seven new ones were named.

EASTERN VISITORS TO MAKE THEIR HOME HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Miley of Neighborville, Ill., drove out from the east recently to visit Mrs. May Marsh of Victoria Lane. They are so intrigued with Sierra Madre that they expect to sell their eastern holdings and take up their residence here.

FIRE FLAMES
By One of The Boys

BECAUSE the rain continued Friday evening, an oral examination was given by Assistant Chief Norris in lieu of our regular drill, and much to the surprise of the gathering, most questions were answered properly. Such questions as "Why do we ventilate?" and "what will burn?" brought many answers and explanations. When Marion Hayes was asked if gasoline would explode, he said it would not and went on to tell of a personal experience years ago when he was owner of a string of trucks in Oklahoma to prove it. He was driving one of the oldest trucks loaded with sand. He told the boys that as a result of the experiment he was sure that gasoline would not explode, but it "surfer than" would burn. Our scientifically inclined members then explained that not a thing but gas would burn. Appearances may indicate, it was pointed out, that wood burns, but the fact is that it is not the wood that burns at all, but the gas formed from the wood and heat only that burns. That's something—heat must be added to wood to form gas, so let's keep heat away from wood and while we are at it, let's keep it away from rags, bags and wood sheds. Fire's Out.

New Reading
Record At
LibraryPatrons Demands In First Month Of Year Exceed Former Circulation

Is the rise in circulation at the Sierra Madre Public Library due to an increased seriousness on the part of Sierra Madreans? Miss Lulu H. Moore, librarian, says no matter what the cause, they read 409 more books in January, 1938, than in January 1937. The increase in library circulation for January compared with the month of December was 425, Miss Moore's records showed, and of these 648 were juvenile books. There were 4,039 adult books, fiction leading with 56 per cent, non-fiction, 30 per cent and juvenile, 14 per cent of the combined total of 4,687.

Among the new non-fiction volumes just received are Harpole's "Leaves from a Surgeon's Case Book;" America's Cook Book; Naumburg, "We Make the Movies;" Lyons, "Assignment in Utopia;" Cheyney, "World History of Art;" Sachs, "World History of the Dance;" Furnas, "Man, Bread and Destiny;" Marvel, "Circling the Caribbean;" Brunton, "Quest of the Overseer;" Moulton, "Best Poems of 1937;" and Lin Yutang, "Importance of Living."

Fiction included Cooper, "The Pioneers;" Griffith, "Wooden Spoon;" Sale, "Is a Ship Burning;" Payne, "Tide Always Rises;" Nathan, "Winter in April;" and Household, "Third Hour."

Citizens Protest
Careless Use Of Park House

Six irate citizens addressed a letter of protest to City Manager Al S. Myers Monday regarding the carelessness of organizations using Park House and forgetting to turn off the lights when leaving, letting them burn when leaving. "It's getting to be a weekly occurrence and has been going on nearly two years," the letter stated.

It was the opinion of the letter writers that persons using the Park House should forfeit the right of using it if they are "so careless and unappreciative" of their opportunity. Police officers plan to check the Park House nightly to see that the lights are out.

Writing And Poetry
Classes Here
Set Record

"Lucia Trent, considered by some the best woman poet in America, and Ralph Cheyney, nationally known poet, have taken over creative writing classes formerly conducted by Miss Hazel Long," recently stated the Muir Technical high school paper "Trail Blazer." These classes in the regular state adult education public school system have approximately trebled in enrollment since this couple took them over. Last Thursday evening T. V. Truman, principal of the evening high school, stated in an address before the class that he believed these were the only classes in the whole United States taught jointly "by two nationally known authors."

The poetry class the Cheyneys conduct each Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 in the recreation house of Sierra Madre's park, free to all comers with visitors invited, now has an enrollment of 112, which is believed makes it the largest poetry class in California. Of course, the average attendance is smaller.

Show me Thy ways, O Lord; teach me Thy paths.—Ps. xxv.4.

Duty is never uncertain at first. It is only after we have got involved in the mazes and sophistries of wishing that things were otherwise than they are, that it seems indistinct.

—F. W. Robertson

A LITTLE LATE

What a shock it must have been to Madame Secretary Perkins to hear, just now, that CIO Bridges is an out and out Communist and an alien illegally on American shores. The whole nation, excepting Madame, seems to have known it years ago, before the lawless Mr. Bridges had injured west coast business to the extent of more than a billion dollars, made its ports unsafe and caused a serious curtailment in intercoastal shipping that cannot but have a lasting effect on the welfare of this part of the country. Demands for the deportation of this unreasonable alien have fallen on deaf ears at Washington. And Al Capone is in Alcatraz.

HOW LAWS ARE MADE

When Senator Logan, of Kentucky, and Senator Wagner, of New York, the latter sponsor of the Wagner Labor Act, are called upon to vote for or against modification or repeal of that measure they will probably say they heard no argument at recent public hearings in Washington that convinced them the law is ill advised in its entirety or contains destructive, unworkable provisions. And they can truthfully make such a statement. News photographers snapped the two august Senators in the midst of deep, sound slumber while arguments on the question were being heard by the Senate committee of which they are members. The published pictures of Senator Wagner show his mouth wide open and his eyes glassed dangling from a cord at the end of his nose.

But it probably doesn't matter, after all. They will get their orders from the one-man government at Washington just like some of the Senators who kept awake for the sake of appearances.

HALF THE GAME

John F. Forbes, of San Francisco, president of Californians Inc., says he learned in his long business experience that letting people know about what you have to sell is as important to business as having something to sell, or a place to sell it in or from. And he believes this is equally true of the state.

"We have the best article in the world to sell, but we've got to advertise it if we hope to sell it," he told the association of which he is president, last week.

The Philosophy of Joe Serra

Maybe I will get the Army and the Navy on my neck, but I will scribble anyway. And the Govt., I reckon it cannot slap me in jail for the same, like as if I maybe raised a row or two rows too much cotton. And what I got in mind, is Admirals and Generals, gettin' retired at 64.

But for any outfit that has its feet on the ground, I will nominate these two-fisted babies—and I will take my hat off to them. And at 64, they are not all washed up, by a long shot.

And these so-called old boys, they have had experience and were brought up on discipline, and they have built a navy and an army that has the world's respect—and when a tough job is on hand, they do it—no manana, but today.

So instead of retirin' these Brigadiers, etc., at 64, which is an insult, we better tack on another four years—and honor them, in places like Congress, and for Governors, etc. And the ship-of-state would gleam and shine, and go places, like a leather-neck with a job ashore.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

The... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

GILLES—with a soft "g"—almost like a "j." It's a name met oftener in England than here. Where St. Giles is honored. Not only as the legendary patron of the crippled and the poor but of many a fine old country parish. In France they call him Gilles (zheel); and there they represent him with an arrow in his knee; while in England he is generally shown with an arrow through his hand. But in either case you'll see him with a deer—a doe, or "hind," as they refer to her in England. For this mother deer has a leading place in the legend of the saint. More than the arrow, in knee or palm, the doe has become his symbol.

DOWN in the south of France his legend runs like this. Gilles, an exiled Greek, or even perhaps a Greek slave escaped from a galley, was lost in the wild forests near the mouths of the Rhone. And might have starved; save for the fact that, in answer to his prayers, this doe appeared, compassionate, with streaming udders. Saved, Gilles (or Giles) became a holy hermit, communing with God and performing miracles, the doe ever with him. And one day the king of the land came out to hunt and shot an arrow at the doe. Which would have killed her if the holy man hadn't flung himself in front of her and let his own flesh stop the arrow. And after that the saint wouldn't allow the arrow to be removed—from knee or hand, it doesn't matter—as a reminder to men of the hurt they often do, unthinkingly, to God's other children.

DEAN BODE was telling us a part of this up in the little Church of the Ascension last Sunday, and we wished the whole world might have heard him. Fifteen centuries gone like a breath, and St. Giles back among us again—shaggy, gentle, and fierce; lit up and blazing with an inner fire. Uncut forests around him. The green shadows alive with birds and beasts and lurking men. There to see this man of God and the wild doe that had adopted him—she's referred to in the legend as "the heaven-directed hind." Just a flash, all this. But one return—and return. Bringing the old query: "Why has the Church forgotten these its lesser children?" (And there was the Dean now mentioning our blessed Francis of Assisi.) "Why were there no more prayers in the church for these humble friars and Poor Clares of the wing and fur?"

DEAN BODE spoke also of that sort of saint, Richard Jefferies—great poet, great mystic and seer—who also loved the open air and all the creatures of it. Strange how many saints and high souls there have always been like that. They preferred the garden, the mountain, or even the desert, rather than a man-made temple, when it came to doing some special work for the Lord. And how the animals seemed to know such men. Unless Tradition is a liar. Which we know it isn't. John the Baptist in his wilderness. He was but one in an everlasting chain, forward and back. Of prophets, masters, martyrs, messiahs. Despised of men. Recognized and honored by the "subject creatures"—even, we like to think, by the rocks and the flowers and the trees.

WELL, the whole matter was still quick and warm in our heart and brain, that same Sunday, in the evening, when we went up to another one of those round-table events at the Vine. And there heard our young neighbor here in Sierra Madre, Francis Dane, tell about those dogs he pastored, practically from the North Pole to the South, on that first Byrd expedition. A hundred dogs, wild as wolves at the start; but in each savage heart a soul—a soul with qualities to identify it with Emerson's "Soul that maketh all!"

AN IMPLICATION, as you might say, supported with such feeling, such eloquence, later on our Colonel Hersey, when speaking of his own adventuring into the frozen regions of the world. Or, rather, not speaking of his adventures at all. But telling only of dogs he'd known—their possession of, as you might say, purely Christian qualities, when most certainly these could not have been derived from man. And if not from man, then—where from, from Whom? Suppose we should read in the paper some day that a bishop had knelt in the street beside, say, a dog hit and lying by someone in a hurry. We're not suggesting anything. We're merely saying, Suppose!

ANYWAY, we got to thinking of a donkey. One that the church really will honor some day, we like to think: the one that went pattering along the road to Jerusalem that day—it was at about this season of the year—when the crowds were shouting hosannas, casting garlands and green branches onto the dust of the road where the donkey must pass. Who was that strange Rider—that Wonder—the donkey felt on her back? Mortal yet Immortal. A fusing-point of Creator and Creation—of all Creation—of all creatures here below. The Church may have—but

by MAX BERN

Laws and Amendments

How does the time required to pass a law compare with the time required to adopt an amendment to our Constitution?

In every session of Congress thousands of laws are suggested, hundreds are submitted, scores are debated and only a few are passed. Many are held over, some for a year, some for several years and others for many years. The quantity and the confusion are too great to reduce to mathematical precision.

Many amendments to our Constitution also have been submitted to Congress, only a few of which have been adopted by Congress and submitted to the people. Most of the latter have been adopted in periods varying from nine months to 46 months.

The first few amendments, known as the Bill of Rights, were adopted as a group 27 months after being submitted by Congress. To ratify the 16th or income tax amendment took 43 months. The people were ready for repeal of prohibition and took only nine months to adopt the 21st or repeal amendment.

The average time required for all 21 amendments, counting the first few as one group, was 19½ months. It takes as long or longer for Congress to pass some laws.

Case and Comment

By Charles B. Shovalter

(Editor's Note: The opinions expressed herein are those of Mr. Shovalter and do not necessarily reflect the attitude or opinions of THE NEWS.)

DURING a recent business conference in Washington the President made use of a remark, that, though it attracted little attention at the time, should be more fully explained and considered, because it is of such vital concern to every citizen. He rather sarcastically referred to "those who believe in the profit system in industry." The very nature of the remark and the way it was used, placed him in the group that does not believe in the profit system in industry.

The extraordinary facility with which he changes his mind makes it next to impossible to know when to believe what he says or what to believe. The result is confusion, uncertainty and utter lack of confidence in the economic sense of the administration. If Mr. Roosevelt intends to destroy capitalism, abolish the profit system in industry, he should say so definitely. Businessmen have a right to know where they stand. So do the rest of us. The uncertainty and senseless experimentation is strangling business, wrecking industry, increasing unemployment, piling up the relief load while the President continues to send up his trial political balloons in an effort to gauge the political reactions of the voters.

This points very definitely to the great danger of too much power in the hands of one man. Never before has America been forced to determine its future upon the gyrations and gymnastic mental processes of a single individual. Upon the attitude of the government—upon the attitude of a single man, if you please—depends the course the nation must take. Because of the extraordinary powers conferred on the President by a rubber stamp abdicating Congress, on the pretext of emergency, Mr. Roosevelt has the power in his own hands to make or break the entire economic system, and there is nothing reassuring in his record. All the measures he has proposed and most of his public utterances reveal his sympathetic attitude toward the Socialist, the Communist, the Technocrat, the Utopian, the ineffective, the habitually disgruntled—all illegitimate offspring of various types of European insanity.

Mr. Roosevelt rather sneers at the profit system in industry. Well, that is a dandy theory on paper and rich material for the rhetorical agitator, but for you, Mr. Citizen, have you considered what it would do to you in practice?

Abolish the profit system—then what have you? Who would care to carry on in any business or industry without the prospect of profit as an incentive? Who would work without profit, and where would you work when business ceased to function?

The fools who support these doctrines may say you could work for the government, but where would the government get the money to pay you? They will answer that the government can print the money, which is true enough, but what could you buy with it? The farmer, with no chance for profit, would produce only for his own use, and you, Mr. City-dweller, where would you go for your cabbages and beans? Sounds silly, doesn't it? It is silly. So silly that it is stark tragedy that anyone in high authority should play with such insane ideas, offer these and other quack nostrums and smile gaily while millions suffer defeat and despair.

The economic policies of the we'll bet that donkey hasn't forgotten. There yet be nights, and certain phases of the moon, when the donkey tells her story over again. Ever notice how donkeys seem to brood? "For us also the dear Lord lived—and died."

New Deal are breaking down. They are breaking down because of the effort to substitute statutory law for economic law.

And because their theories have failed to prove their worth, Administration spokesmen are looking everywhere to find a suitable and convincing alibi. They have blamed capitalism. They have blamed the profit system. They have said business was staging a sit-down strike. They have put the blame all on old man monopoly. All in an effort to convince the voter of the infallibility of the New Deal and hold him in line.

If the Administration would give more thought to the general welfare and less to perpetuating themselves in power our problems could be speedily solved.

We know the machine has been wrecked, and the great problem now is how to get it going again in high gear on the road to prosperity. It can be done. How? Have the administration definitely adopt an economic policy in line with those policies that have made of us a great nation. In line with those economic policies that created for the American people more than fifty percent of the world's material resources. Stop fooling with Socialism, Communism and all the other silly isms. Answer the alien agitator with prison or deportation. In extreme cases, the firing squad. Racketeers, whether in business, or labor, or politics, should be lodged in the penitentiary for life. Effect a separation of economies from politics.

The extension of political control in the field of economics is the weapon used by demagogues to force their way to dictatorial power and peace.

If we would save ourselves from the shame and dishonor and suffering and despair of Russia or Germany or Italy, we will take economic power and control out of the hands of politicians and restore it to the people where it belongs.

Individual initiative and supervision created our vast economy. Only individual initiative and supervision can operate it successfully for the benefit of all. Give it over to politicians and they will operate it for the class they represent.

Away with all this foolishness. Dispel the fog of doubt and fear and confusion. Strike the shackles from industry and smoke will again come from America's smokestacks, and men will march back to the steel furnaces, to the automobile assembly lines, to our transportation systems, and to the nation's thousands of factories, large and small.

Complete figures of car registrations in California for 1937 just compiled by the vehicle department reveal that there is a motor vehicle here for every other citizen. Incidentally California stepped out ahead of New York with 2,657,233 sets of license plates—16,559 more than New York.

San Gabriel must be growing too fast and a group of citizens want to halt its progress. At least they are cooking up another recall election in the valley town and folks just naturally don't want to live in a city where there are a bunch of malcontents and disturbers—where there is always turmoil and a lack of neighborliness. Petitions are being circulated demanding the recall of Mayor Albert May and Councilman Harold Lange. It is the second effort to get the mayor's scalp, his political enemies evidently being bitter tinders.

New Deal efforts to shorten crops and create a food shortage were no match for California's fertile soil and ever present sunshine. The winter orange crop is 76,000,000 dozen in excess of the previous greatest production and the walnut growers are at their wits end to dispose of the great crop they ever produced. It amounted to 100,000,000 pounds, 12,000,000 above last year's crop. Food distributors throughout the nation are trying to help both sets of growers. Finest grades of walnuts are being offered at little more than half the normal price in an effort to restore the nut bowl to American tables. Special "orange events" will be observed by food chains and independent dealers of the country February 24, March 24 and April 21 in an effort to absorb the 20 per cent above normal production and oranges are ridiculously cheap—and especially good—right now.

If you're an average American, you've one chance in thirteen of being accidentally injured or killed during 1938. Basing statistics on past performances, the National Safety Council this week predicted that over nine million Americans will be temporarily disabled during the coming year by falls, fires, and the fury of auto drivers—that 375,000 more will be doomed to life-long pain.

ESTIMATE BILLION DAMAGE TO WEST COAST BY HARRY BRIDGES

THE case of The People of the United States versus Harry Bridges, radical firebrand of the C.I.O. now being heard before the Senate Committee on Immigration to determine whether Bridges should be deported as an undesirable alien, will be watched with vital interest by California agriculture and farmers throughout the nation.

Documentary evidence alleging that Bridges, under the alias of Harry Dorgan, was an active Communist leader and conspired with other Communists to create dissension and discord among maritime workers is said to be in the hands of the Senate committee.

And Senator Royal Copeland of New York, Democratic chairman of the trial committee, makes definite charges that the West Coast has suffered more than a billion dollars in losses as a result of strikes incited by Bridges and alleged Communist associates.

Agriculture's interest in the case is three-fold. First, California's farming industry—in common with agriculture in other Pacific Coast states—has suffered tremendous losses as a result of strikes and shipping tie-ups which have been engineered by Bridges and his associates. Crops have rotted on the docks; markets have been lost; farmers have been plunged into debt or bankruptcy, through no fault of their own.

Second, Bridges and his followers have boasted that they now propose to "march inland" and "organize" farm workers, so that they will have control of production as well as transportation.

And third, California farmers, apart from every other consideration, have an intense loyalty to their state and nation and believe that the time has come to stop temporizing with enemies of American government, who defy law and order and seek to foment class struggle.

According to Senator Copeland, investigators of the Senate committee have discovered a Communist party "book," or registration card, issued to Bridges under the alias of Dorgan, carrying notations, allegedly in Bridges' own handwriting.

The committee also claims to have in its possession affidavits giving inside details of conferences between Bridges and Communist leaders at which plans were discussed for inciting labor disturbances and gaining control of the merchant marine.

Adding a note of mystery to the proceedings was the fact that Secretary of Labor Frances Per-by permanent injuries—and that 106,000 will die for their carelessness. What price does America pay for this annual jamboree. Watch your step.

California appears ready to climb aboard the housing bandwagon and make sweet music. On the program of the indicated special session of the Legislature is passage of an Enabling Act to untie the Federal purse strings and permit California to receive five millions as her share of the Federal Housing drive. Passage of the Enabling Act will be the prelude to a rousing symphony scored for the melody of the carpenter's hammer and saw, and all the trades and industries who constitute the soldiers' chorus of an indispensable army of workmen. So strike up the band!

It took Henry Dendieux three years and a million francs to find it out, but now he knows—he doesn't want to be a millionaire! He was just a sailor in the French navy with a lottery ticket. One day, he was a sailor with a million francs. That started the trouble! He bought a car—and wrecked it, killing two companions. He started for Spain with a friend—but the friend vanished with part of his money. He bought a business in Madrid—but the war broke out. He fled into France with his fiancée, but she left him. Today he is just a sailor. Money means trouble to me! says Henry. Perhaps he's right! Perhaps easy-money won't buy happiness.

The "gamest girl in the world" is no longer with us, but the memory of Dorothea Antel's heroic battle lives on. Dorothea Antel was a former actress. At the age of 19 she injured her spine in a backstage fall at Hartford, Conn. For the last 18 years—until her recent death—she had been jacked in a steel corset, confined to her bed in a New York apartment. With no resources, she had won a single-handed contest over bleak-eyed Poverty by conducting a greeting card shop from her bedside telephone. Though cruel Chance might shatter her body, no power could shatter the unquenchable will that burned in her like a steadfast flame. Around that flame all hearts can be warmed.

kings, openly sympathetic with Bridges, protested turning over evidence in her files to the Senate trial board. And the mystery deepened when the committee charged that the file, as originally submitted by Miss Perkins, failed to contain vital documentary evidence in her possession, namely, a report by a Seattle Labor Department representative, recommending the arrest of Bridges and his trial with a view to deportation; Bridges' own deposition, concerning his labor and political activities, and a series of affidavits by West Coast labor men, accusing Bridges of fomenting strikes and promoting Communism.

Whether or not Bridges is a Communist still remains to be definitely established; it is to be hoped that the Senate committee ferrets out the facts and that Secretary of Labor Perkins remembers her obligation as a high public official and cooperates with the committee to that end.

But irrespective of the outcome of efforts to link C.I.O. Leader Bridges to Communist Dorgan, the evidence would seem fairly conclusive—at least to a farm jury—that Bridges is an undesirable alien, out of sympathy with American government and American principles, who should be deported before he has further opportunity to bring disaster to Pacific Coast agriculture and Pacific Coast cities. American agriculture, American industry and American seamen would be better off without him.

Travelers To Poles Tell Importance Of Dog Teams

Stories of dogs at the North Pole, the South Pole and in Southern California formed the topic of the Sunday night supper discussion at Wistaria Vine Gardens.

Francis P. (Duke) Dane, in charge of the 150 dogs taken by Admiral Byrd's party to Little America, told of training and preparing the animals for their Antarctic experiences. He spoke of raising pups under the snow during the long winter night and of the difficulties attendant on driving a dog team through "setting" snow.

Col. H. B. Hersey, second in command on the Walter Wellman Expedition to the North Pole in 1903, told of plans at that time to carry a team of 12 dogs in a balloon so that transportation would be available if the gas bag failed.

Others present including Postmaster R. O. Calkin, told of incidents of loyalty and sensitivity among canine pets. More than fifty persons enjoyed the affair which was one of a series sponsored by Mrs. W. J. Lawless.

Col. Hersey Tells Of His Experience Up In A Balloon

Because of his unusual experiences and his outstanding career as "weather man," Colonel H. B. Hersey is always in demand as a speaker before clubs and organizations.

Recently, at the invitation of the Pasadena Sunday Morning Breakfast Club, Colonel Hersey was guest speaker and told the members of his interesting experiences during the first international balloon race held in Paris in 1906. Col. Hersey and his assistant, Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm, United States Army, won the race and brought the cup to America.

As a major in Roosevelt's Rough Riders in the Spanish-American war, and as a Lieutenant Colonel of the United States Signal Corps, he saw active duty in two wars.

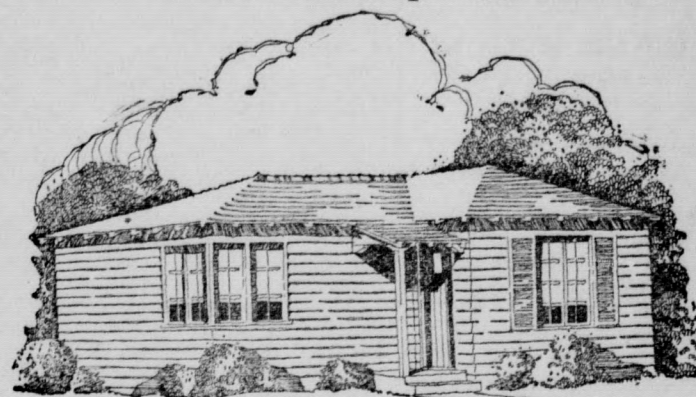

tired looking at is the one of Paul Wright. . . . At least it can be said of him however, that he isn't sending cuts of himself around to the newspapers every day or two.

We attended our first Kiwanis luncheon meeting this week and got a big kick out of it. . . . Bill Burr was flying here and there with a big wooden shoe making the "naughty" boys pay fines for "misbehaving". . . . The Kiwanians amused us by shortening everybody's name and calling each other by their first names. . . . Dr. Peterson, for instance, is "Dr. Pete". . . . Gordon McMillan registers all the guests. . . . and then reads their names off and makes them get up and bow. . . . and we blushed. . . . and were glad we weren't asked to make a speech. . . . or sing or dance. We must tell Mrs. Billheimer that Mr. Billheimer, who sat next to us, doesn't eat his carrots. . . . for we noticed he left his carrot salad in lonely splendor—but ate everything else.

That night at the Forum meeting when Dean Bode told of his European impressions we were impressed by the power of personality. . . . and "thoughtfully" watched the Dean, who cannot by all the oratorical rules, be called a great speaker. . . . yet, who holds the attention of his audience as no other speaker we have heard can. . . . and we reflected that it was the radiant, shining quality of the man that made him so beloved. . . . and his charming, little self-deprecating ways that are so endearing. . . . and we looked at him again. . . . his kindly face, his white hair make us remember the greatest man in fiction. . . . who is not a character of fiction to us at all, but has always seemed more real than most flesh and blood persons. . . . and for many years we have looked for that man in the flesh. . . . and it suddenly struck us again, as it struck us the first time we saw Dean Bode, that he personified the good Bishop in Les Miserables. . . . Victor Hugo's classic that has exerted a profound influence upon us since we read it more than fourteen years ago. . . .

What A Girl Sees Ramblin' 'Round

By Marjorie Hesse

RUTH H. HEBBELETH-WAITE, nurse, likes our newspaper and doesn't mind saying so. . . . The other eve she rustled in all spic and span white to get an extra copy as her's had gone astray. We were pleased to accommodate her, especially when she said such nice things. . . . Francis P. Conard and Mrs. Conard of West Mira Monte. . . . at the Woman's Club the day the Juniors entertained the new members. . . .

Fun in Friday's rain: . . . We enjoying (meanie, of course) Pete Dyche's consternation when water rushing down the gutters hit car wheels parked at the curb and shooshed in a big geyser nearly in the door of the Sierra Madre Drugstore. . . . Pete rattled around and found the drivers who moved the cars. . . . and the water rushed merrily on. . . . Pat West singing for the guests at a party and Mrs. West proving a capable accompanist. The Woman's Club Juniors in a flurry because Wednesday's luncheon was delayed 30 minutes due to a truck breakdown. . . . "Happy" of Happy's Liquor Store beaming in spite of the rain. . . . We will give a free bottle of vanilla or lemon extract the day—any day—that Happy fails to smile. . . .

Now that Daniel Shaffer is an honorary member of the Women's Society of the Congregational Church, what with Mr. Conard already attending women's club meetings. . . . we look for a masculine invasion of woman's realm. . . . We expect any day now to hear that Al Myers has joined a knitting club or that Alfred James Dewey is working on a fancy quilt. . . . Seriously, however, we understand the dinner given by the men of the Congregational Church last week was really something special. . . . the culinary end of it was in charge of A. F. Guignet, a gourmet of discrimination, and a former dining car steward. . . . He was the steward of William Jennings Bryan's campaign train in 1900. . . . and probably contributed no small degree to the silverness of the "boy orators" famed speeches. . . . The ladies will have to work hard to beat the men. . . . say we. . . .

In heaven's name when will this sickening contest end. . . . the apparently endless one between the pompous funny little mayor of Los Angeles, Shaw, and Mr. Sheriff Biscailuz. . . . to see which can get his picture in the newspapers most often. Undoubtedly they are the world's greatest publicity hounds and if anyone told either of the boys that they are handsome or distinguished looking, they'd plain lied to them. If they hadn't gone clear out of their minds to keep their faces before the public their over zealous press agents couldn't make them so ridiculous as they appear in many of the laughable poses in which they try to appear impressive. . . . Sometimes we wonder if Byron Pitts isn't trying to edge into the competition. . . . And another mug we are plenty

The Marriage Problem

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Author of "The Wrath to Come,"
"The Great Impersonation," etc.

Easy Divorce Will Lessen the Sanctity of Marriage

THERE are certain matters in life with which it is notoriously dangerous to interfere—crude nitroglycerin is one, and the marriage laws another.

Some time ago the progressive dictator of the Turkish empire in Constantinople suddenly decreed the abolition of harem life, and, probably with a tremor about his left eyelid, enunciated the doctrine of "one man, one wife." The decree scarcely seems to have given universal satisfaction. In a French newspaper we read of a wealthy merchant of Constantinople, owning a harem of 36 helpmates, who apparently received the mandate in entirely the wrong spirit. He took the unusual course of inviting the 36 to a sumptuous banquet at which he himself presided.

The press is silent as to the means employed, but in the morning the 36 wives and their disconsolate lord and master were dead! The latter's only known comment upon the subject was that, sooner than send 36 women whom he had loved to disgrace, he preferred to obtain for them a place in Paradise. It is doubtful whether his solution was altogether satisfactory to the unfortunate ladies.

Without accepting such an episode, which sounds more like an extract from the "Arabian Nights" than a real happening, as a serious warning to us Westerners, we must still admit that from whatever point of view we study the subject there is a certain amount of danger in tampering with one of the laws upon which much of the structure of present-day society rests.

No change in the marriage ordinances, now or in fifty or a hundred years' time, which reflects prejudicially upon the spiritual or sentimental side of matrimony can be for the welfare of the human race.

Easier divorce, so freely advocated nowadays, and so confidently anticipated in the future, must naturally tend to lessen the sanctity of marriage.

To take the chosen woman of your heart and soul for the remainder of your lifetime is a sacrament; to take her on probation to see how you get on would be to strip one of the world's most beautiful institutions of much of its poetry and romance.

Any emancipation of the marriage ordinance in years to come would be a retrogression toward pre-civilized ethics, would mark a deterioration in the spiritual and romantic outlook of the coming ages which it is hard to believe possible.

A very possible development in the future, however, may be a relaxation of the laws of divorce applicable only to the childless.

There have been, and still are, countries in which childlessness is looked upon as a disgrace and a fit and proper cause for an annulment of the marriage vows. Certainly a union without children can never rank in the same category as a union which has resulted in the successful operation of the laws of nature. This is where vital changes might come into effect, especially in the countries of declining birth rates.

Married people with children have given a lien to destiny. If man and wife sometimes drift apart in course of time, they must remember that they have enlarged the circle of their affections; they must endeavor to find in their children the consolation for any real or fancied lessening in the bond of sympathy between one another.

But the case of the childless presents possibilities. There seems to be no reason why, in days of an increasing latitudinarianism, two people who fail to get on together, and have no one but themselves to consider, should not be given an opportunity of making a fresh start in life.

Even then, though, if the sociologist of the future should preach such a doctrine and embody it in legislation, it would only be the reincarnation of a principle accepted in various parts of the universe from the dawn of civilization.

The marriage laws of today, as interpreted by the beautiful sacramental service of all canonical prayer books, are unassailable.

With the one exception of a childless union, relaxation of its sacred rigidities will be clamored for only by the nonidealists of the coming generation. And as civilization and intelligence are, after all, on the upward grade, the minority will probably meet with scant success.

College Women Hear Explanation Of Affairs In Orient

The annual luncheon meeting of the Pasadena College Women's Club held February 12 at the Altadena Golf Club, offered several Sierra Madre women the opportunity of hearing Dr. Claude Buss, instructor in Chinese History at the University of Southern California, discuss "The Destiny of the Orient" in which he clarified a great many puzzled views.

Patriotic decorations in honor of our two national leaders, whose birthdays occurred, and will occur this month, were tastefully arranged by Mesdames Carl A. Greese and W. S. Hull. Among others present were Mrs. Raymond Andrews, program chairman and vice-president; Mrs. E. D. Burbank, Mrs. Harold Carey and Miss Marjorie Adams and her guest, Miss Marion Vannier.

4 Cousins Separated Since Childhood Have Reunion Here

For the first time since their childhood, in the East, four cousins find themselves together under the same roof in Sierra Madre.

Mrs. R. A. Pratt, of 240 East Alegria avenue, is entertaining her two cousins, Mrs. E. B. Cadwell, of Saugerties, N.Y., and Miss Celia Barnes, of Cambridge, Ohio, while her sister, Mrs. M. Burnworth of Hollywood, joins the trio over the weekends.

Motor trips to many of the Southernland's principal points of interest occupy much of their time, but gay informal luncheons and breakfasts with the four cousins talking over old times are a constant source of enjoyment. Mrs. Cadwell, who owns a 600-acre estate on the Hudson, is enthusiastic over the beautiful Sierra Madre Mountains, and the view of the San Gabriel Valley from Sierra Madre. Her own home, near a large lake affords a splendid view of the majestic Catalinas, which she insists are as beautiful as can be found anywhere in the world.

LACEY-EASTWOOD WEDDING IS LOVELY AFFAIR

February will always be remembered with a great deal of sentiment by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Haig Eastwood (Madeline June Lacey) who were united in marriage at 8:30 p.m. Saturday by Rev. S. R. Sheriff at Mary Church. Herbert Lacey gave his sister away.

The capacity-filled church looked approvingly upon a bride garbed in a modish gown of turquoise chiffon with halo hat and veil to match, with which she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and ferns. Her matron-of-honor, Mrs. Warwick Eastwood, wore a gown of contrasting pink chiffon, and pink hat, and carried pink sweet peas. The groom was attended by his brother, Warwick Eastwood. The romantic St. Valentine motif was artistically used, with a huge heart of pink roses and ferns being placed in back of the bridal party and hearts pierced with a gladioli upon each seat.

Miss Kathleen Moore sang "Oh, Love You Truly," and "I Promise Me," to the accompaniment played by Mrs. Margaret Montgomery.

A reception and dinner was given afterwards by Mr. and Mrs. Warwick Eastwood at the Aztec Hotel in Monrovia. Mrs. P. E. Lacey, mother of the bride, wore a handsome gown of black lace. The couple will be at home to their friends at 121 Mar Vista avenue, Pasadena.

HURWITS ARE HOSTS AT BRIDGE DINNER

Our recent period of weather inclemency has been no deterrent to hostesses of Sierra Madre; with jollity and equanimity, guests gaily tripped over to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Hurwitz of 500 West Highland avenue on Saturday evening to a bridge dinner.

Those present included Dr. and Mrs. H. Dendelsohn of Altadena; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Levinson, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Davidson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Furstman of Sierra Madre, besides the hosts.

PATRIOT'S BIRTHDAYS THEME OF PRISCILLAS

With two famous birthdays to draw upon, there was no dearth of ideas along entertainment lines at a meeting of the Modern Priscillas February 10 at the home of Mrs. H. W. Glidden of 305 W. Laurel avenue. Mrs. Milford J. Thompson was co-hostess.

Washington and Lincoln games furnished the afternoon's pleasure. Coral-red camellias accentuated the St. Valentine theme. Delightful refreshments were served. Guests-of-honor were Mrs. Dora L. Cover and Mrs. Arthur O. Pritchard. About twenty-two members were present, with Mrs. L. A. Sherman presiding.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT AT SUPPER HERE

An engagement supper honoring the betrothal of Tomoye Takasugi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenka Takasugi, 308 North Adams street, to Pete Mirmalek, of Monrovia, was held Friday night at the Japanese school in North Grove street.

More than fifty friends and relatives gathered and feted the young couple. They will be married at the Buddhist Temple in Los Angeles next month.

WOMEN STUDY NEW IDEAS IN AMERICAN HOMES

Members of the Art Section of the Pasadena College Women's Club held an interesting session at the home of Mrs. William L. Colligan of 102 East Mira Monte Avenue on Wednesday afternoon. The absorbing topic, "Different

Mrs. Hendricks is President of the Claremont Unit; also Mrs. Hattie Lumpkin, Gold Star mother and Past President of the San Gabriel Unit.

Augusta Coates paid a visit to our Civil War veteran, Mr. E. J. Webster on St. Valentine's Day and presented him with a bouquet. She found him doing very nicely.

Our Unit has been invited to put on the 18th District dinner in late March when the American Legion Post will entertain other Posts of the District.

VALENTINE PARTY FOR CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The Nassaiki group of Camp Fire Girls enjoyed a St. Valentine party given on Monday by Mrs. Edward Roach, their leader, at her home. Business was happily combined with pleasure, with the girls taking entire charge of all expenses and arrangements. Games and songs were thoroughly enjoyed around a blazing log-fire.

Little guests included Margaret Young, Marilyn Albright, Mary Irish, Sylvia Shippey, Adair Roach, Virginia Liscomb, Marion Carelton, and Yvonne Mullino. Mrs. Della Carelton assisted Mrs. Roach.

Types of American Homes," was the subject for discussion. In these beauty-conscious days, everyone realizes that beauty is a necessary part of every day life and a close familiarity with it should be closely cultivated.

Before attending the afternoon meeting, Mrs. E. D. Burbank of West Carter avenue entertained Mrs. Fred Griebonow of Sierra Madre, and Mesdames S. A. Nielson and D. W. Jackson, out-of-town guests, at luncheon at Wistaria Vine Gardens.

FLORETTA KEITH HAS A VALENTINE PARTY

A lovely party was given by Mrs. Boyd Keith of East Sierra Madre Blvd., Monday, complimenting her little daughter Floretta, and her friends. St. Valentine dominated the decorative motif and entertainment. After games of all sorts were played, the little guests fled into the dining-room, where a gorgeous repast awaited them.

Among those present were Marilyn Naley, Joan Hinkley, Myrel Mae Wesse, Mareta Preston, Theresa Keyes and Janet Gerschler, besides the hostess.

MAPHA CLUB ENTERTAINED AT VALENTINE PARTY

Miss Frances Olds and Miss Cynthia Hull were two of the many St. Valentine hostesses in Sierra Madre who used this romantic day as a motive for entertaining. Friday evening at the home of the former, the Mapha Club members were given a charming evening. After the meeting, Valentine games were played. Miss Eleanor Phillips and Mrs. Eleanor Harper won the prizes. Decorations, in keeping with the day, carried out another motif. Those from Sierra Madre included Genelle Paschall, Eleanor Phillips, Marianne Daily, Marjorie Black and Jane Griebonow.

HONOR ILLINOIS VISITORS WITH DINNER PARTY

An attractive dinner party was given on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kramer of 149 North Mt. Trail avenue in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Miley of Neighborhood, Ill., who are houseguests of Mrs. Mary Marsh of 41 Victoria Lane. Miss Rose Schlinger was also a guest.

DEAN BODE LENDS INTEREST TO ST. CATHERINE'S TEA

Members and guests said it seemed like the good old days again to behold the beaming countenance of Dean Arnold Bode at the St. Catherine tea last Thursday at the Parish House.

It was an exceedingly pleasant afternoon anyway, with many friends coming and going all afternoon despite the rain. A blazing fire crackled in the great open fireplace, around which several individual tea-parties held sway. The Dean, Mrs. Bode and the Misses Margaret and Katherine Bode and Miss Daisy Hawks were entertained by Mrs. H. Randolph Wood. The cooked food table was avidly sought, likewise those amusing and sensible white elephants, of which there were a goodly number.

DINNER PARTY HONORS DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Lola Borradaile of 391 West Grand View avenue was hostess at dinner on Sunday to a family party in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Colligan of West Mira Monte avenue. Guests from Los Angeles and other places were present.

Yesterday Mrs. Borradaile gave a charmingly-appointed tea complementing her close friend, Mrs. Catherine Page of New Mexico, who is wintering on the coast. About 16 guests from Pasadena and elsewhere, all mutual friends, were present.

PARTY SURPRISES FATHER ON 62ND BIRTHDAY

Coming as a complete surprise was the thoughtfully-planned dinner party given by Mrs. L. M. Evans of the Belle Vue Courts on Sunday in honor of the 62nd birthday anniversary of her father, Mr. Clement, who arrived a week ago from Montreal, Canada, and whose birthday was February 12th.

The setting chosen for the celebration was Mrs. Gordon's Kitchen, well known haunt of epicures on Foothill Blvd. Here, a sumptuous spread amid glowing colors and happy friends, all of whom were French, and from Pasadena and Eagle Rock. A mammoth cake embellished with yellow pansies, and proudly bearing 62 candles, graced the center of the table. Favors were laid for the guest of honor, L. Clement, a son, who accompanied his father to the Southland, and Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Evans, and their son, Raymond Pickard, besides the friends.

SOCIAL NOTES

Miss Lalla Fagge of 353 Sycamore Place spent the weekend in Los Angeles, being present at the numerous farewell festivities given last week in honor of the departure of her niece, Miss Carita Laurence, who left Wednesday for an indefinite visit with relations in England.

Music-loving Sierra Madreans eagerly attended the homecoming concert given under the auspices of the Pasadena Teachers' Association and P.T.A. at the Civic Auditorium in Pasadena, February 7, for the highly-acclaimed, 15-year-old Roland Gundry, violinist. Among those who appreciated the artistry of the boy were Miss Marjorie Winn of 383 East Montecito avenue, Mrs. George Morgridge, Mrs. Hortense Hill, Mrs. Gilbert S. Bovard and Miss Moreland Kortkamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kern of 538 West Alegria avenue were dinner guests on Monday evening at a St. Valentine dinner given by William Bailey of Mexico City and Glendale, at his Glendale home.

A delightful dinner party was given Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Keith of East Sierra Madre Blvd., honoring their Dinner Club. The Valentine motif was employed and places laid for eight. Bridge was played afterwards.

One of the recent delightful affairs given for the young folk of Sierra Madre, was the prettily-set St. Valentine dinner party given Friday evening by Mrs. Roswell Mundy of Altadena in honor of Leona High, Roberta Roberts and Norma Louise Lentz. A theatre party followed.

It is so nice to see Mrs. J. S. Billheimer of Suffolk Place, her usual radiant self again; and able to resume her social duties; illness does not seem to belong to her. On Tuesday, she was entertained at luncheon at the Biltmore by Mrs. Dr. L. R. Packwood of Fresno, an old friend, who came south to hear her brilliant young daughter, Miss Kay Lisenby, a U.S.C. student, sing over KRKD Monday evening. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Billheimer were hosts to Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Aberly of Pasadena at dinner.

Woodrow Wilson P.T.A. is giving a benefit show at the Uptown Theatre, next Monday, beginning at 7 p.m. A double bill, "The Awful Truth" with Irene Dunne and Cary Grant, and "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," and an animated cartoon are scheduled for that night.

Proceeds from the show will go to the P.T.A.'s welfare fund, according to Mrs. Waverly E. Pratt, president. Tickets must be obtained, however, from either members of the P.T.A. or at Hartman's Drug store, to count for the P.T.A. as tickets purchased at the theatre are not included in the benefit funds, Mrs. Pratt said.

CARD OF THANKS

Unable to meet them all personally we take this means of expressing our most heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for the solicitude of so very many of our townspeople for the welfare of our daughter Marjorie during her grave illness, and to thank them for their generous efforts of help and for their prayers in her behalf. It is with great joy we are able to announce to them that she is out of danger and, we believe, on the road to complete recovery.

"Swinging" Youths Learn Old Steps At Little Theatre

There was a sound of revelry at the Little Theatre in Windsor Lane Tuesday night, when Ivan Karaloff, dancing master, led a group of students through the intricacies of the Virginia Reel. Young and old joined hands and with a one-two-three, and a heel-and-toe, proved a merry crowd. The oldesters led the youngsters, who can "swing it," but can't "feel it," through the mazes of the old dance.

After the Virginia Reel the dancers caught their breath while learning a slow, graceful waltz.

LEGION TO DISCUSS NATIONAL DEFENSE

Many phases of National defense, now so prominently before the public since President Roosevelt's appeal for a huge navy and probability of an armament race with Japan, will be discussed at a meeting of the American Legion, in the Dug Out at City Hall, Monday night, in honor of National Defense Week from February 14 to 19, Commander Sam Graham announced yesterday.

NOTES FROM CITY SCHOOLS

GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Valentine's day was a very happy one at our school. The valentine boxes were overflowing with beautiful and bright colors. Some of the mothers brought treats, and in the cafeteria the cook, Mrs. Patterson, put on each table a bowl of valentine candies which brought a lot of loud cheers from the children.

The last few weeks have been so rainy that it has been hard to find something to do during the noon period. We have been lucky once a month to have Chief Stevenson, who has been in the navy over twenty-one years, and is a petty officer, show us some interesting pictures of our navy. Some showed the navy sports, and one was of the navy's activities on the Philippine Islands. He told us about the sailor's uniforms, too, and why they dress the way they do.

Each room observed Lincoln's birthday in their own way. Some by studying the life of the great man, and some by telling the ideals for which he stands, and by various other means. Washington's birthday will be observed in the same way.

Juanita Gullons and Theresa Keys The Tooth Templars had a very successful meeting on Wednesday. The president, Walter Beely, could not attend the meeting so vice-president, Virginia Liscomb took his place, and the secretary, Marilyn Naley read the minutes. A play was given by the 6-B and 21 new members were given their membership cards.

—Marilyn Albright, 6-A.

The 4-A and 5-B class have made a model of Hoover Dam in cement. It is two feet high and six feet wide. The water goes through the pipes and power house. Friday, they christened the little dam.

Kick ball "work up" seems to be very popular with the girls. They call it 500. We have a good kick ball team. Juanita Gullons, Jean Vieri, Aiko Vianhiro, Florida Keith, Theresa Keys, Ada May Hill and Betty Cord seem to be our best in kicking and catching.

—Ada May Hill.

ST. RITAS SCHOOL

The boys basketball team of St. Rita's played a bang-up game against St. Joseph's at Pomona Monday afternoon and won by a score of 14-11.

St. Rita's boys' team is playing well this season and the boys are eagerly looking forward to the end of the month when they will play for the district championship. If they make that they will be eligible to play for the Archdiocese championship.

The essays and posters were dispatched this week to the headquarters of the St. John Seminary Drive and the pupils who entered work are keeping their fingers crossed in the hope of winning a prize.

The children may join in the fund raising campaign although there is nothing definite known as yet, and if they are allowed the privilege, they are looking forward to assisting the grown-ups in their drive.

The pupils of St. Rita's are very happy to learn that Marjorie Bradley, one of their most popular members, is well on the way to recovery.

REPLANT TREE FROM FAMED BATTLEFIELD

BRETHERTONS ENLARGE DINING FACILITIES

Brothertons, 2239 East Colorado street, Pasadena, famous for their home cooked meals, have recently added a new dining room to their already large quarters and are now redecorating the main dining room. CALIFORNIA DELICACIES TO BEAT VISITORS HOME

The date packing plant owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kramer of 154 North Mt. These eastern ladies have purchased several large boxes of the delicious fruit for far-away friends, sending them on ahead of their return to New York, which they intend to make the latter part of next week.

The good wishes of the community are with that likeable chap, Craig McLaughlin, son of Mrs. J. H. His traditional affability and application have already won him an enviable place with the faculty, to say nothing of those "Betty Co-eds."

Conservationists Rap Hydraulic Gold Mining

San Graham, Commander of the Sierra Madre American Legion Post returned Monday from Fresno where he attended the State Conservation meeting that went on record as strongly opposed to hydraulic mining interests that, in the "destruction of great natural resources to benefit a limited few" have left in California many barren and denuded areas as a monument to their rapacity.

The committee recommended an eighteen day duck season with open days each Wednesday and Sunday from October 16 to December 14, 1938, and use of Civilian Conservation Corps personnel in carrying out the conservation program of the California Fish and Game Commission.

FIRESIDE CLUB MEETS

'Round the town—

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lord of 52 West Grand View avenue were hosts recently to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. Gerritt Verkuy, old friends from Kansas City, Mo. With Mrs. Lord and Mrs. Mitchell both claiming Park College as their alma mater, the animated conversation of their girlhood days filled a most enjoyable day.

Mr. D. M. Pierce of 268 East Sierra Madre Blvd., is spending several days visiting friends in Thermal, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Brandler of 125 East Mira Monte avenue, have as their houseguest Joseph B. Brandler of New York City, a brother of the former. It is Mr. Brandler's first trip to California and Sierra Madre is greatly admired by him.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Carlson of Long Beach were weekend visitors at 619 Woodland Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hawk of 682 Brookside Lane were hosts on Sunday to Dr. and Mrs. Settle of Long Beach and family, also friends from Los Angeles; also their granddaughters, the Misses Janice and Carol Strock of Sierra Madre Canyon, Dr. and Mrs. Settle own a house in the canyon and contemplate deserting the beach city for their mountain residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Brennan and family have rented the Rev. Robert C. Lewis cottage at 481 Woodland Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith of 331 Ramona avenue left for a day at Palm Springs on Tuesday with two of their remaining houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Oswald of Cleveland, Ohio, who with several other friends have been participating of the Smith hospitality, since the new year. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thompson of North Hermosa avenue with their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Rumsey of Briggsdale, Weld County, Colorado, attended the Colorado picnic at Sycamore Grove in Los Angeles on Sunday. The clear, exhilarating day reminded all of their Rocky Mountain state, and many joyous moments were spent visiting with old friends. The ironical part of it was that, our group met a great many Sierra Madreans there!

Mrs. Fannie Sea of 198 West Montecito avenue was hostess on Friday evening, last, to Mrs. Evelyn Braden and her talented daughter, Miss Consuelo Braden of Sierra Madre Canyon, at a prettily-appointed dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. T. De Lacey Moffitt of Hanford, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd King and little son Robert, of Seattle, Wash., who are houseguests of Mrs. W. H. Murray of 88 West Grand View avenue, have been enjoying glorious pleasures California has to offer, with trips to Huntington Library, San Diego and Coronado.

Councilman Had To Build To Get Home In Sierra Madre

Rental houses in Sierra Madre are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

That is what Councilman and Mrs. W. O. Preston found after they had blithely sold their residence at 503 West Montecito avenue to Mrs. Minnie Ryan, of Eureka, and started out on the quest for a vacant house. After combing the city and finding nothing they decided to build a new one. This they are now doing on their lot in the Pegler tract. It is to be a California farmhouse type, and will embody all the late features in home building. The Prestons hope to occupy it some time in March.

CITY REJOICES AS GIRL RECOVERES

There was rejoicing throughout Sierra Madre when word came from the sick bed of little Marjorie Bradley, pneumonia victim, after the city's first aid crew used the resuscitator on her, that she had rallied from the sinking spell that threatened to end her life; later when word came that she had passed the crisis and was out of danger, and finally when it was announced she was on the road to recovery. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradley of North Mountain Trail, said she had been able to set up for a few minutes for the first time yesterday.

Marjorie is a talented pupil of St. Rita's school where the children are delighted to learn of her progress.

FORMER OLGA OLSEN HERE ON VISIT

Borgford (Olga Olsen) and children of Seattle, Wash., are down from the north for a month's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olsen of Olsen's Shoe Store, the former a brother of Mrs. Borgford, and relatives in Glendale, where the visitors are staying.
